Advance of May Wheat to New High of $2.70 Only Big Development.

(By the International News Service.) New York. April 21.—Although a reaction in the stock market was due on technical grounds Wall Street had several rather far-fatched reasons for the selling of today. This selling was light and resulted in only fractional declines. In the early part of the session the list was strong but the close was at low prices with the market heavy. Sellers, however, could get planty of buyers for everything offered. The only important development of the day was an advance of May wheat to the new high record price of $2.70 a bushel.

This advance of May wheat was in face of reports of improving crop conditions in the winter belt and of very favorable conditions in the spring wheat belt. Plowing is well under way for other crops and the outlook so far as any human being can see it is for the greatest acreage of all crops ever known. Conditions in the spring wheat belt. Plowing is well under way for other crops and the outlook so far as any human being can see it is for the greatest itons in general were never better so that it is only fair to expect record breaking production this year.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET. New York, April 2.—There was every indication in the undertone of today's curb market that priors were on their way upward but only by slow processes. The tradition waves were stery sluggest, except in a few of the apecialties. The industrial list stoned little change with the exception of Chevroles, which was strong. Mining shares were listless.
